One small squirrel caused one big power outage this morning on the east side of Findlay, according to Hancock-Wood Electric Co-op.

Nearly 700 Hancock-Wood customers lost power at 9:30 a.m. today, the utility said, with several businesses near the intersection of Tiffin Avenue and Hancock County 236 reportedly losing power and traffic lights knocked out at the intersection.

Hancock-Wood restored power to all of its customers shortly after 11 a.m., the utility said.
