A mum has revealed her young children are terrified by an infestation of rats at their Co Kerry home.

Amy Goggin, from Causeway first noticed the vermin near her home over two years ago and reported the matter to Kerry County Council.

But the mum-of-two says the problem has now gotten out of control.

Earlier this week, she discovered eight rats "swinging from trees" outside her home. Amy said the vermin are getting more brazen by the day.

She told Extra.ie: 'I was in shock, I was like 'am I actually seeing this?' Even my mom was beeping at them and they didn't move — so they're not even scared of noise of anything.

"They're out the back and front, but the front is worse... I have my two kids' rooms at the front of the house and when I open their bedroom windows I can see the rats up in the trees right outside my door."

The 28-year-old said her two children, Sarah aged 7 and Luke aged 9, are terrified.

"Sarah's petrified, she didn't want to get out of the car today and was crying when she came in," she explained.

Amy previously described the rats as being "like monkeys, swinging from branch to branch".
